Genes	Description
AGTR2 246.71	Gene: ADD1 International nomenclature: Adducin 1 alpha Polymorphism: 1378 G>Trs4961 Functional meaning: The ADD1 gene controls the formation of the structural protein of the cytoskeleton-alpha-adducin, which is involved in the regulation of the membrane protein activity of the sodium and potassium ion transporter in the cells of the renal tubules epithelium. As a result of the work of this carrier, sodium is retained in the body, and potassium is excreted. Also, this protein is involved in the regulation of biochemical processes within the cell, which are associated with a change in the tone of the contractile myoflament in smooth muscle cells, through the calmodulin-protein kinase pathway. Population risks of developing diseases: Polymorphism in the ADD1 gene is associated with an increased risk of developing hypertension, ischemic heart disease, coronary artery disease, coronary spasm and myocardial infarction, stroke, type 2 diabetes, kidney disease (glomerulonephritis, albuminuria).

Recommendations

General characteristics:
People with Vata Dosha dominating have the quick and sharp mind, vivid imagination and good short-term memory. They are sensitive, emotional, receptive and provide a vigorous response to the changes going on around them. A person of this type generates a lot of ideas and easily gets inspired by them. Vata people are good theorists as they are not afraid of the new. However, being unstable and volatile they may find it difficult to put their ideas and theories into action. Being inspired, they do not feel like earning or getting attached to material values. Due to extravagance, they are prone to impulsive spending. Vataas can be very active, but they spend the energy too fast, and get tired too fast. They also get easily distracted and switch from one thing to another every minute. People of Vata type are prone to fear, anxiety, instability, emotional lability and indecision.
Mood swings, body aches, joint pains, respiratory issues - are the common problems of Vata.
Vata person should follow a daily regime, measured and even lifestyle, especially regarding nutrition and time of sleep. The daily regimen should allow time for an after-lunch nap, body care, mind purification and harmonization techniques. The body should get enough rest and time for relaxation (Pranayama, meditation, prayer, contemplating). Ideally, Vata's life should be built up of stability and peace.
If you are a Vata person try to live in the present moment. Pacify your mind with Pranayama and deep breathing techniques. Meditate, listen to relaxing music. Try not to overexert, avoid strenuous training. You spend a lot of energy on "fly of thoughts" and imagination, that is why you need to learn how to save the energy. The innate capacity to "fly", multiplied by craving for beauty and unconscious aestheticism, forces you to live by the principle of modesty, beauty and elegance.
Health problems may worsen in windy and cold climate, cold weather or season (late autumn or winter), that is why it is important to pay more attention to your body during these periods of the year. Use food, herbs and essential oils of hot, oily and heavy properties.

Day routine:
It is better for you to get up around 6:00-7:00 am. You need daily oil massage and regular physical exercise. Plan all the activities, intensive exercises and important events for the first half of the day. Reduce the activity after lunch; take a nap between 2:00 and 4:00 pm (no longer than 30 minutes), which would be highly beneficial for your health. Ideally, you should go to bed at 10:00 pm, performing regular relaxation and breathing exercises before sleep. An early going to bed gives you more time for sleep and energy restoration so in the morning you feel all freshened up.

Diet:
You need to have full meals, three times a day. Eat regularly, preferably at a fixed time. Try to avoid raw, dry, cold food; give preference to hot nourishing soups and dishes. The food should be of the hot, oily, nourishing and heavy properties. If you're suffering from loss of appetite, drink ginger beverage. You can use such spices as cardamom, cumin, pepper, asafoetida regularly. Give preference to sweet, sour and salty tastes. Eating ghee every day would help you to decrease Vata. The first intake of food or early breakfast should be around 7:00 am, full meal - at midday and you may have light dinner around 6:00 pm.

Physical activity:
Physical exercises should not be too intense, moderate physical load is preferable; fast pace would lead to overexertion. Perform strength exercises slowly, use weights. Energy should maintain stable and evenly distributed. Yoga with a complex of breathing exercises performed twice a day, qigong, wushu, aikido, short swimming distances, cycling, outdoors jogging, golf, tennis, badminton, Thai Chi are beneficial for you. Include asanas for flexibility and mobility of the spine. Application of oils before the training and warm baths after the training would help to pacify Vata.

Body care:
A course of relaxing massage or Abhyanga with the constitutionally suitable essential oils is highly recommended for your type. Use plant oils such as sesame seed oil, wheat germ oil, apricot oil. Beside the fact that these oils nourish, moisten and rejuvenate dry skin, they bring harmonization at the cellular level, which helps to attain the balance. Oils work towards keeping the warmth in muscles. Take a warm bath after massage.
